Planning Outlook

All mountain areas of Britain from Friday, 20 December, 2024

Lengthy bouts of upland gales (sometimes storm force), frequent precipitation (often of snow on the mountains), over the next few days.

Turning mild on Tuesday with freezing level then constantly above the mountain summits for several days. Extensively dry, although there may be drizzly rain W and most likely NW Scottish Highlands. It may well remain windy in N Scotland, but elsewhere, winds much lighter, especially across Wales.
