

Peak District

The southernmost Pennines, covering the entire Peak District National Park, also extending north to hills accessed from Hebden Bridge, and including the hills immediately north of Manchester.

Alpkit is a multi-activity outdoor and bike brand for enthusiasts and adventurers making technical equipment to help you enjoy the outdoors whatever the weather. Go Nice Places, Do Good Things.

General Summary for Friday, 30 May, 2025

British Mountain Summary:

Based on forecast chart for noon 30 May, 2025

Morning rain, locally heavy, clearing to leave localised drizzly showers. Extensive cloud remaining near the west coast and over much of Wales and the Peak District. Winds soon light in Scotland, but higher wind speeds over England and Wales; tending to ease a little through the day. Feeling cool in the Highlands.

Headline for Peak District

Patchy rain on and off; wind easing slightly

Detailed Forecast for Friday, 30 May, 2025

How windy? (On the summits)	West or southwesterly 25-35mph in the morning, gradually easing to 20-25mph in the afternoon to evening.
Effect of wind on you?	Comfortable walking starting to be affected; more challenging for a few hours in morning. Notable wind chill.
How wet? (Precipitation and its impact)	Rain on and off Areas of rain and drizzle come and go through the day, some may linger for a time, particularly in the west. Becoming largely dry by mid-afternoon onwards.
Cloud on the hills?	Intermittent over high terrain Extensive at dawn, lowest in western areas. Bases lift through the morning and becoming patchy, intermittently above the hills. Bases return to high terrain in rain.
Chance of cloud free summits?	60%
Sunshine? Air clarity (below cloud)	Occasional sun, but extensive cloudy periods. Very good visibility where out of cloud/rain.
Temperature (at 600m)	10C rising to 13C Feeling like 3C in the strongest winds.
And in the valleys	12C at dawn, rising to 17C

All mountain areas of Britain from Saturday, 31 May, 2025

A changeable, unsettled outlook this weekend and the first week of June as low pressure and frontal systems pass west to east. West to southwesterly winds prevailing, speeds varied, but gale force for periods on the mountains. Spells of rain and showers, some periods of sustained heavier rain mixed with thundery showers at times. Cloud often shrouding higher terrain. Brief ridges of high pressure afford short-lived windows of drier and clearer weather, likely on Monday. Temperatures near average, although often cooler northern Scotland, feeling chilly where exposed to strong winds.

Forecasts are issued daily by 16:30 and are kept under review and amended as necessary. However, expected conditions can still change after issue. © Copyright Mountain Weather Information Service, 2025.