Planning Outlook

All mountain areas of Britain from Thursday, 8 May, 2025

A quiet spell of weather as high pressure continues to dominate over the British Isles this week and likely into next week too. Generally dry conditions, low risk of an isolated afternoon shower. Sunshine and variable cloud, at times covering the sky, but generally above the mountain tops with excellent visibility. Winds mostly light, direction variable. Slight frosts at dawn in sheltered spots. Becoming pleasantly warm into afternoons, generally warmer by the weekend. Possibly local bursts of rain forming Sunday into early next week, mainly Wales. Very dry ground conditions, beware high risk of fire.
