Detailed Forecast for Sunday, 11 October, 2026

How windy? (On the summits) Effect of wind on you?	Northwesterly 25mph around dawn, easing in morning to westerly 15mph, or less by middle of day into afternoon. Toward evening, turning southwest then southerly, rising into night to 30-35mph. Marked wind chill and rather blustery on high tops at first, becoming small until evening. Worsening conditions into night.
How wet? (Precipitation and its impact)	Rare if any showers Isolated if any brief showers, likely only western areas in morning. Into night, patchy rain pushes in from southwest.
Cloud on the hills? Chance of cloud free summits?	Rare patches Some patchy cloud may drift around upper slopes in the morning, but generally all dispersing or lifting above hills.
Sunshine? Air clarity (below cloud)	Patchwork of cloud and sun. Visibility excellent.
How Cold? (at 700m) And in the valleys	5C rising to 7C afternoon, then lifting onward into night to 8 to 10C. Feeling like -3C if exposed to stronger breeze early morning. 3C at dawn, slight frost some sheltered spots at first; rising to 13C afternoon.

All mountain areas of Britain from Monday, 12 October, 2026

Damp and mild southwesterly air moves across the country into Monday, winds strengthen again later to widely gale-force over the hills, heavier rain sweeps eastward overnight and into early Tuesday, followed by showers and a drop of temperature. Very unsettled west-southwesterlies continue into midweek - sustained mountain gales, possibly stormy at times and spells of heavy rain for all areas. A changeable westerly theme likely continues beyond mid-month - occasional windows of drier weather, but more often windy with rain or showers coming in from the Atlantic, sometimes cold enough to fall as snow on Scottish high tops.
